A word or two regarding these two cases is only fair to our staff. One of the cases was tubercular in character and was despaired of from the first; the second one stayed under our care for only three days, then went to an outside physician who took care of it for a month and then it passed on to still another doctor who finally decided the finger should be amputated, which was done. Aside from these two cases we have not lost a single portion of any-employe by reason of infection. Part of the propaganda referred to consists of a card printed in English, Italian and Polish, and which was given to every employe in the plant and also is given to every new employe when he is hired. The cards are entitled, What to Do Should You be Injured,...
